The WICHE Student Exchange Programs

STATISTICAL REPORT

Academic Year 1989-90

WICHE
Improving Education in The West

WICHE and Student Exchange

Through four mechanisms of student exchange administered by the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, nearly 3,000 residents of 14 western states are enrolled, at reduced levels of tuition, in a broad spectrum of undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs not available in their home states. This is a report of Fall 1989 enrollments in those programs and, in the case of the Professional Student Exchange Program, of the dollars that flow between the "sending" states and "receiving" institutions in PSEP.

Programs to encourage and assist sharing of facilities and education programs among the states underlay the initiative in 13 western states, early in the 1950s, to create the Western Regional Education Compact and with it, the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE). The founding group has been augmented through the affiliation of North Dakota in 1985 and of South Dakota in 1988.

The Professional Student Exchange Program (PSEP) is the oldest and largest of the WICHE exchange programs. Students pay resident tuition (or approximately one-third of regular tuition in private institutions) and the sending states pay an additional "support fee" established by WICHE. The program was initiated in medicine, dentistry and veterinary medicine. Over the years since the program began in 1953, the three initial fields have been expanded to 15 (a 16th field, forestry, is being phased out, to be available in the Western Undergraduate Exchange).

The Western Regional Graduate Program (WRGP) came into operation in 1981, extending tuition reciprocity initially in five and ultimately (beginning in Fall 1987) in all WICHE states except California, in designated graduate programs. Programs are nominated by the sponsoring institutions and chosen after an extensive review intended to assure that the programs are distinctive. Students pay resident tuition. There is no additional state payment in this program.

The Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE) was initiated in Fall 1988, opening opportunity in a wide range of programs in two-year and four-year colleges and universities. In WUE, states may include any programs in which they are prepared to enroll residents of other participating states who will pay resident tuition plus 50 percent of that amount in lieu of nonresident tuition (which usually ranges between double and six times resident tuition). By Fall 1989, there were 74 participating institutions in 12 states (all WICHE states except Arizona, California, and Washington).

Through WICHE Scholars, any WICHE state may assist its residents in any field at any degree level, by providing the difference between resident tuition (paid by the student) and the receiving institution's nonresident tuition. (In private institutions, as in PSEP, the student normally pays one-third of regular tuition and the remainder is covered by the support fee paid by the home state.)

In this annual statistical report, Tables 1 through 5 provide enrollment and financial information concerning the Professional Student Exchange Program. Information about the other exchanges follows these tables. For all programs, further information is available from WICHE.

 The support fee rates established by the WICHE Commission for the 1987-89 biennium in Group B fields provided an exception for students who began PSEP enrollment prior to June 1987. This exception stipulates that the support fee payable in 1986-87 continue in effect for the duration of these students' enrollment.

Western Regional Graduate Program

The Western Regional Graduate Program (WRGP) began in 1981 in Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. By Fall 1989, with the addition of other states and after several program nomination rounds, the activity included 35 institutions, 125 programs, and all WICHE states except California and South Dakota (which affiliated with WICHE in 1988 and is expected to participate in WRGP in the future). A nomination round initiated in October 1989 is expected to result in the addition of several new programs in Fall 1991.

All states and institutions cooperate in the program selection process. Programs are selected because they are not commonly available and are found to be of quality.

The Western Regional Graduate Program activity differs from the Professional Student Exchange Program in several ways:

- The focus differs.
Programs in WRGP are primarily in sciences and liberal arts rather than in professional fields.

- The reciprocity agreement is simple.
Participating states agree to admit WRGP students at resident tuition rates. Private institutions reduce tuition by at least one-fourth.

- Administration is primarily local.
Students apply directly to the graduate programs in which they are interested, identifying themselves as WRGP candidates. No WICHE or state agency application is used.

The Western Regional Graduate Program brochure, which lists all programs and institutional contacts, is available from WICHE.

Western Undergraduate Exchange

WUE—the Western Undergraduate Exchange—is a program in which students in participating states may enroll in designated two-year and four-year institutions in other participating states at a special reduced tuition level applicable only to WUE students, namely the amount of in-state tuition plus 50 percent of that amount. In all programs the sum is substantially less than nonresident tuition.

Participating in the Western Undergraduate Exchange in 1989-90 are 12 of the 15 WICHE states: Alaska, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada (two-year institutions, only), New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon (four-year institutions, only), South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming.

Under general guidelines established by the WUE Council and within parameters established by each state, institutions offer to WUE students the degree programs they choose to make available. In many cases, institutions have opened all of their programs on a "space available" basis; in other cases, institutions have excluded some programs or have listed specific programs that are open to WUE students.

At the deadline for this publication, no report or incomplete reports of Fall 1989 WUE enrollments have been received from Montana, Oregon and Wyoming. WUE enrollments in nine states which have submitted complete (though preliminary) reports and in Oregon and Wyoming (from which incomplete reports have been received) total 1,377, more than double the Fall 1988 numbers in the 10 states that were participating at that time. A complete report of WUE enrollments, including information concerning the programs in which students are enrolled, will be available early in 1990.

Scholars Program

WICHE Scholars is a program through which WICHE states may extend tuition assistance to residents in programs not available in public institutions in the home state and not available in other WICHE exchange programs. The student pays resident tuition (one-third of the standard tuition charge, in private institutions); the sending state pays, through WICHE, the remainder of either the nonresident tuition charge or of the regular tuition (in private institutions). In 1989-90, 31 students from Wyoming and one student from New Mexico are enrolled as WICHE Scholars. Wyoming is the only state that regularly sends students in this program.

Improving Education In The West

WICHE, the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, is a nonprofit regional organization. It helps the thirteen member states and two affiliated states to work together to provide high-quality, cost-effective programs to meet the education and manpower needs of the West. Member states are Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming; North Dakota and South Dakota are affiliated states.
